GCA terms and conditions

You hereby grant Genode Labs GmbH ("Genode Labs"), Dammweg 2, 01097 Dresden, Germany, a license to use your Contributions to Genode, under the following conditions.

"Genode", as referred to in this agreement, means all software products that Genode Labs has, at the date of signing, published or will publish in the future under an open-source license, for example the GNU General Public License (GPL). This includes, but is not limited to, the Genode OS Framework.

"Contributions", as referred to in this agreement, mean any past or future material such as source or binary code, artwork of any media, documentation, correspondence in mail, or similar material as usually found in relation to software. This agreement covers such contributions only as far as they are related to Genode. You hereby give Genode Labs a world-wide, perpetual, irrevocable, royalty-free, yet non-exclusive license to use your Contributions to Genode in any way that Genode Labs may see fit, including for commercial purposes. This includes, but is not limited to, the right to copy, translate, relicense, sublicense, modify, use, make available or public, sell, offer to sell, rent, lease, lend or otherwise distribute your contributions or modifications thereof, as well as any ideas contained therein that may be covered by patents under applicable law.

You formally release Genode Labs from its obligation to name you as the author of your contribution and otherwise respect your moral rights, as you are aware that there are no such obligations in the GPL either and Genode Labs may possibly want to redistribute your contributions under that license, and you permit Genode Labs to act as the sole author and copyright holder of its Product even with your Contributions. Genode Labs will, however, make any reasonable effort to give you proper credit for your contributions in the products' documentation materials as well as websites.

Genode Labs will duly examine your contributions, but you understand that Genode Labs is under no obligation to make use of them as described above.

You certify and warrant that your Contributions to Genode Labs's Products do not violate the intellectual property rights of third parties and that you are legally entitled to grant Genode Labs all of the rights listed above.
